Hancock board okays administrative salaries

BY TRACI BONNEY

The Hancock County school board approved a salary scale for the district's administrators Thursday at a special meeting.

There apparently was some confusion as to whether or not the board had already approved the salaries at a previous meeting, but since no copy of the minutes was available at Thursday's meeting, held in the Hancock High School library, the board eventually approved the scale, with raises and the budget amendment to allow those raises, 3-1. Lennette Necaise cast the dissenting vote, explaining she believed insurance monies that had been taken from certified personnel should be restored before any raises are issued.

Necaise was acting as board president in the absence of president Frank Miller.

The discussion on the salaries, which took the majority of the meeting time, was prompted by a request from Superintendent Myrna Bourgeois, who said she was embarrassed that she hasn't been able to offer the administrators their contracts. She pointed out in making the request that the school district could not pay the administrators or expect them to show up for work without setting the contracts.

CASH FLOW MANAGEMENT

The board unanimously approved the authorization of documents for a cash flow management program for the district.

The program allows the district to borrow funds in anticipation of tax revenue collections, invest those funds and draw against them, thereby earning interest while still have the resources to pay bills until tax revenues are credited to the district.

John Hartman explained the program to the board, and commented that the district actually made some money under the system during the last fiscal year. Bourgeois confirmed his statement, saying the district made some $3,500 last year.

The resolution passed by the board authorized the district to issue tax anticipation notes of up to $1.08 million.

OTHER BUSINESS

The board handled several items on its consent agenda, including: accepting the resignations of secondary math teacher Dyan Celine Ford and Gulfview summer feeding monitor Sandra Evans; approving employment of Linda

Diamondhead 39525

New ZIP code in use August 15

Diamondhead residents will begin using their own ZIP code, 39525, on August 15, according to Senator Trent Lott.

The United States Postal Service agreed last month to assign a ZIP code for Diamondhead, which now shares a mailing address with Bay St. Louis.

"We have taken this one step at a time," said Lott. "Last year, we got the post office to recognize Diamondhead as a legitimate address."

Waveland adopts flood damage protection law

BY TRACI BONNEY

A question about meeting minutes, a concern about changes in an ordinance, and a conflict over a travel request caused some sparks in a brief and otherwise calm meeting of the Waveland Aldermen Wednesday.

The board unanimously approved the bills, the sell-back of two lots, and the ratification of a poll vote to advertise for the lease-purchase of two mowers.

However, Alderman Stan Weidman dissented in votes on the minutes, the adoption of a revised flood damage prevention ordinance, and authorization for Mayor Stella Frilot to attend a recycling conference in Tennessee.

On the minutes, Weidman questioned the wording of a statement concerning Bayou Caddy Casino. He said the minutes said the board authorized Frilot to write a letter to the company saying the city will allow it to pump sewerage into the Waveland system, providing the Waveland Regional Wastewater District approves. However, Weidman asserted that a tape he made of the meeting indicates the letter was to be a letter of the city's intent to allow the pumping.

After claiming the minutes were incorrect, Weidman attempted to move that they be amended. However, Alderman Barbara Rappold had already moved that the minutes be accepted as presented, and the board approved them 3-1.

Stennis marks 2,000th firing

America's space shuttle program reached a major milestone Friday, July 24 as a 135-second test of Engine 0218 at Stennis Space Center marked the 2,000th hot firing of the Space Shuttle Main Engine (SSME).

Attached to the orbiter, three SSMEs are used to boost the shuttle into low-Earth orbit during the first 8.5 minutes of flight. The SSME accumulated

1,474 firings at Stennis. at NASA's Center of Excellence for large propulsion systems testing, Stennis is responsible for testing and flight certifying all main engines for the shuttle.

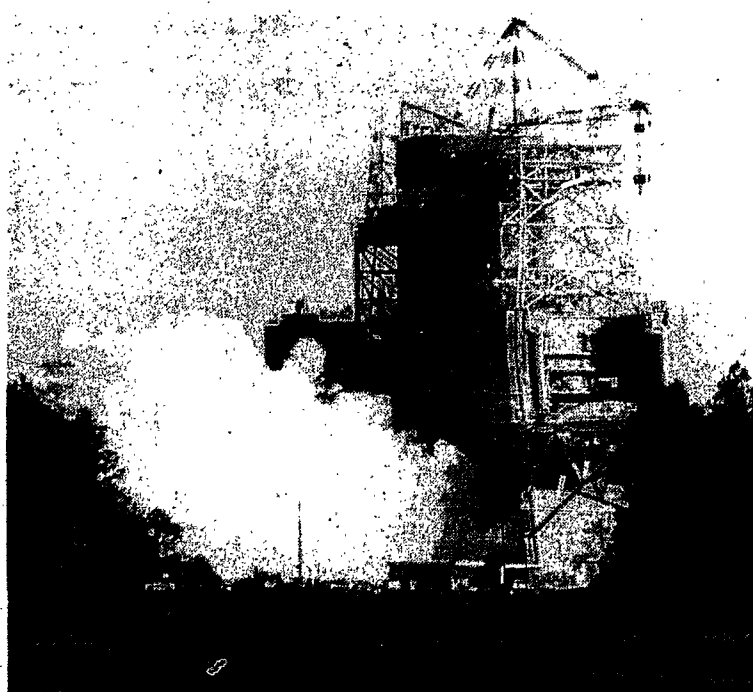

The other SSME firings have been achieved in 48 successful Space Shuttle flights, each of which used three SSMEs and counts as three individual firings.

Stennis Director Roy Estess said, "Achieving this milestone on the SSME is positive comment on the tremendous capability and reliability of the engine."

"We take considerable pride in the fact that the 2,000th firing occurred at Stennis. This is evidence of our team's dedication to providing safety and reliability to the nation's manned space program."

The SSME, the only reusable rocket engine in the world, is built and tested for NASA by the Rocketdyne Division of Rockwell International Corp., and the program at Stennis is managed by the Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala.

The engine uses liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen propellant and is one of the most powerful engines ever built. One engine operating at full power provides more than half a million pounds of thrust. Each SSME weighs about 7,000 pounds, is 14 feet long and about 7.5 feet in diameter.

Also addressed in the meeting were a presentation of the Employee of the Month award to fire department worker Mike Smith, and a report by library board president Evelyn Johnson and member John Smart on the county library system's long range plan status.

Johnson told the aldermen and mayor the library board has hired a consultant to survey the current condition of the county's three library branches, and give his opinion and advice on how to best utilize the space and accommodate growth.

Smart affirmed the report that library use is growing, saying all three branches have seen increased book checkouts, especially the Kiln branch, which had a growth of 249 percent over last month.

Later in the meeting, when the flood damage protection ordinance was brought up for adoption, Weidman moved to table it until a later date so the aldermen could study it. His motion died for lack of a second.

Board attorney Lucien Gex explained that the ordinance revisions had come from the state, and the city must adopt those changes or jeopardize its flood insurance.

Most of the changes deal with mobile homes, Gex said, and he assured the board the changes will not supersede other established local ordinances.

When the vote came to adopt the changes, Weidman dissented, citing lack of study time.

The last item on the agenda was authorization for Frilot to attend the Southeast Recycling Conference in Chattanooga, Tenn., in August. The registration cost is $175.

The request raised a protest from Weidman, who questioned the benefit of Frilot's attending the conference. He said that since the city recently agreed to join Bay St. Louis and the county in a waste disposal/minimization plan, he did not understand why Frilot needed to go to Tennessee.

She replied that she didn't know what she would learn, since she had not yet attended the conference, but had she not expected to learn anything beneficial to the city, she would not have made the request.

Her request was approved 3-1, and the meeting immediately adjourned.

Hoda attends education forum

Margo Hoda, color specialist at Hair Works in Bay St. Louis, recently completed an education forum on hair color at the Steven 'Sobel' Salon in New Orleans.

Hoda received instruction on how to formulate color using Framesi products to suit the individual client's hair, skin and lifestyle.

Hair Works is the first salon in the area to offer the Italian-made Framesi hair color products.

"The innovative Framesi products offer an unlimited selection of colors, and the semi-permanent, opaque color lasts longer than other transparent color products," Hoda said.

She has also completed training in several schools in Florida and Louisiana.

State education board approves FY94 budget

The State Board of Education approved its FY94 budget of $1.3 billion in July. The budget will be presented to the legislative budget committee in September.

The budget reflects required increases of $21.3 million over the FY93 appropriation. The increases are earmarked for the mandated gift programs, textbooks, the school lunch match, training for local school board members and other areas.

However, the number of staff positions in the State Department of Education is reduced by 27. Since FY91, the staff has been reduced by 45 positions, or 18 percent.

State Superintendent of Education Tom Burnham said the staffing reduction indicates his intention to reorganize and streamline the department along functional lines.

"The state board members and I agree that service to local districts as well as overall efficiency will increase when the reorganization is complete," he commented.

June library usage breaks all records

Hot, muggy weather doesn't keep Hancock County residents from using their public libraries. According to monthly library statistics for June, 1992, the library system broke all previous attendance and check-out records.

More than 5,000 people visited the branches of the library system to use various library services; 3,500 of those individuals borrowed materials.

Books, audio tapes, tapes for the blind and handicapped, videos, and other library materials were circulated to borrowers 15,736 times during the month. Adult items circulated nearly 9,000 times.

ON PATROL

From Echo Staff Reports

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

A Lakeshore man was arrested Thursday and charged with domestic violence after holding a gun to his wife's head for 2 1/2 hours, according to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson.

Wayne G. Bieller, 40, was arrested after his wife Gayle, 51, called the Sheriff's Department about 10 p.m. Wednesday. Deputy Allen James responded and found Bieller holding a cocked gun to his wife's head.

Bieller, who talked to Sheriff Ronnie Peterson by phone around 10:45 p.m. and reportedly said he didn't care about living anymore, requested to talk to a priest. Father William Kelley, summoned from St. Augustine Seminary, went with the sheriff to Lakeshore and talked to Bieller by phone at Kent and Sue's Quick Stop.

Kelley talked to Bieller about 30 minutes and persuaded him to surrender, Peterson said. He added that Bieller is awaiting commitment for mental evaluation.

Peterson also said Bieller tried to set fire to his jail cell around midnight Thursday. However, the jail's fire-resistant materials prevented anything more serious than some smoke from happening.

Mrs. Bieller was treated at Hancock Medical Center for lacerations to her mouth, caused when Bieller allegedly hit her with the barrel of the gun, knocking her false teeth out of her mouth and breaking them. She was given stitches, but not hospitalized.

The Biellers had known each other three months and been married a month when the incident occurred, according to Mrs. Bieller's daughter, Bridgett Vincent.

Correction

"QUOTABLE QUOTES"

By Ellis C. Cuevas

Championship girls softball will once again be played at McDonald Field in Bay St. Louis starting Monday. The tournament is sponsored by the Bay St. Louis Little League Girls Softball program and will be the 9- and 10-year-olds State and the Big League Section Tournaments.

Teams from Bay St. Louis, Central Harrison and Woolmarket will be vying for the championship beginning at 6 p.m.

The Big League girls, ages 16-18, will be representing the state of Mississippi and will be playing the state of Louisiana for the Section Championship.

Just last Saturday, July 18, the 11-12-year-olds Bay St. Louis Little League team won the state championship while hosting that tournament at McDonald Field.

I want to offer congratulations to the 11-12-year-olds team members, Manager Ronnie Artigues, Coach Les Fillingame, sponsors and league officials.

Best of luck to the 11-12-year-olds state champs who will journey to Talladega, Ala. to represent Mississippi at the Sectional Tournament which also begins on Monday.

The youngsters from Bay St. Louis need some good local support at McDonald Field when the play Harrison Central at 6 p.m. Monday. The next game will be at 7:30 p.m. when Bay St. Louis 16-18-year-olds play Louisiana for the Section Championship.

Sounds like there will be a lot of action Monday and the rest of the week at McDonald Field.

Best of luck to all local teams.

Storm trackers critical to the protection of life and property

As we enter the mid-point of this year's hurricane season, I am thankful, much like many South Mississippians, for the continued funding for Keesler Air Force Base's "Storm Trackers."

On July 2 the U.S. House of Representatives overwhelmingly approved the 1993 Defense Appropriations bill which included $4.1 million for the WC-130 Weather Reconnaissance Squadron.

Since the Reserve's 815th Tactical Airlift Squadron at Keesler Air Force Base plays a vital role in protecting both the lives and property of the entire population living in the east and Gulf Coast regions of the United States, I see it as only fitting that this program remain fully funded.

The funds will cover the operation, maintenance and personnel expenses to support 12 aircraft and 17 crews. Furthermore, the bill ensures that sufficient funds will be made available to keep the squadron flying for many years to come.

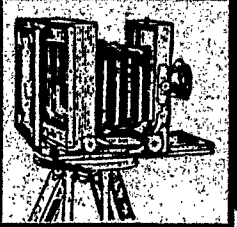

Two years ago, Secretary of Defense Dick Cheney attempted to cut this vital life-saving program against my strong objections. Failure to fund the program would have forced meteorologists to rely solely on satellites to track hurricanes.

As all South Mississippians are aware, satellites and "Storm Trackers" work well as a team. However, one without the other could lead to a catastrophe, costing the lives of dozens, if not hundreds of South Mississippians.

This bill's strongly worded language sends the Secretary of Defense and the Air Force a "hands-off" message. The measure forbids the Air Force from reducing or disestablishing the operation of the "Storm Trackers."

Whether a low pressure disturbance or Category 5 hurricane is brewing in the Gulf of Mexico, South Mississippians depend on the data recorded on —The Bay St. Louis 13-year-olds Babe Ruth All Stars left no doubt in anybody's mind Tuesday that they are state champions. They devastated d'Iberville 10-0 in the final game of the championship series in Long Beach to take home the title handily. Brian Laneaux chalked up the no hitter behind some fine defensive play. Pernell Galloway covered a lot of ground in grabbing a long fly ball to get Laneaux out of trouble in the fourth inning with a runner in scoring position on third with no one out. Laneaux also belted a home run. The Bay All Stars scored 41 runs and allowed only three in the four game series. Stopping McComb 6-1; blaking Long Beach 10-0; slammed Yazoo City 15-2, and d'Iberville 10-0. In the game against Yazoo City, Laneaux hit two homers, one a grand slammer. In the Long Beach and d'Iberville games, Glen Rose went two for four. Other big hitters for Bay include Joey Rogers, who went three for three against Long Beach; David Pitalo, who hit a double against Yazoo City and has power to hit long ball; Jay Artigues, who always manages to get on first base; and Mark Logan who went two for three against Long Beach.

—The winners of Diamondhead's First Annual Street Fair fiddling contest were: Murphy (Pewee) Maddus of Bayou Phillips, first place; Ed Favre of Rotten Bayou, second place; and Earl (Buck) Ladner, Bay St. Louis, third place. Ladner says he plans to win the contest next year in spite of the fact that he was taught fiddling by Maddus.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Prisoners need rehabilitation

Dear Editor,

This is in reference to your feature July 18, called "Street Talk." I liked it; it hit the pulse of this town and others close around. Opinions were offered on an issue that concerns us all.

We need to know what the citizens of this area think.

I've spent years as a prison volunteer chaplain, and have worked at the Hancock County jail as a volunteer minister.

I have tried to help many male and female inmates. They all once dreamed of the American dream, but something went wrong in their lives and short-circuited these dreams.

I know they have done wrong, but if they are not helped while they are there, even after serving the time, they will come out and do it again, or something worse. Some 80 percent return to prison and become hardened criminals.

I know our law enforcement officers work hard, dangerous and long hours for very low pay. I appreciate what they do and applaud them.

The police do their job in getting them off the streets; but the system is lacking all along the way.

These men and women need to be helped all along the way, in ways they are not.

The average Joe Citizen had better wake up to the fact: Just hiding them away, (out of sight, out of mind) is just a band aid on an open cesspool of a wound.

Most will get out and will do it again if not helped during their stay.

Remember, citizens, if we stick our heads in the sand, there is a lot that can be hit while we are not doing anything about it. We are vulnerable.

Victims of incest must cry out for justice

To the Editor:

Upon reading a recent report in your newspaper on incest/child sexual abuse, I became very agitated.

Our local sheriff made a statement indicating that "in the 70's you didn't hear much about such cases that much; in the '80's the reports really increased; and in the '90's it seems like they're leveling off some."

I'm of the opinion that if cases being reported are leveling off, it's only because young victims and older ones who now have memories of the abuse, have come to realize that the present system of justice does not give much relief to an already devastating event.

This can be seen in the statement of the same article by county attorney John Genin who confirmed Sheriff's Department investigator Matt Karl's observations of the cases involved. He states that the victim's age is a determining factor in the chances brought against a suspect.

Genin reported if a child is under 14, it's a felony; children older than 14 need "force or penetration" to occur for it to be a felony. He further stated consensual sex is considered rape if the victim is younger than 14.

This is grossly unfair! Consider a 15-year-old (or older) victim who has been abused for some time. The stage has already been set for fear and intimidation if the truth should be told. A 15-year-old still needs food, shelter and other necessities supplied by parents, step-parents, guardians, etc. and because of the almost non-existent "jail-time" that most perpetrators received, the message being sent to our "children" is one to remain silent.

The now present alternatives for victims are so alusive, most victims just stay in the house until they become suicidal, on drugs, alcohol or prescriptions or become school drop-outs and "problem children" not realizing the root cause. Some even become run-aways and "street-kids" in order to escape the pain at home.

When is society going to begin to protect our children? Are we ready for a future of debilitated individuals who function in a haze due to intense guilt, shame, pain, confusion and no faith in our judicial system? What are we waiting for?

My plea is all who have been abused sexually to begin to break the silence that shrouds the crippling devastation and speak out and keep speaking out until we are heard.

It's beyond me how a man can be sent to prison for rape of a stranger or someone known to him as an adult, but a relative or trusted adult of a child gets a "slap on the wrist," probation and ordered therapy. Most of the time the therapy isn't even enforced. This is a mockery of all we teach our children about justice and fairness. Is it any wonder that our teens are turning to various unhealthy means of escape?

Speak up children, whether you're young or an adult "stuck" in the role of a child because of the damage that occurred in your youth.

The only way to change most situations is to make a lot of noise!

Return to dictionary for accurate definition of 'liberal'

Dear Editor,

I am addressing Mr. C. T. Fulcher's Letter to the Editor. Mr. Fulcher refers to Webster's Dictionary to define a word. He used the basic definitions of the word liberal as it is an adjective. If he wanted to do some real research he would have found a dictionary that knows that the word "liberal" has a political definition.

My American Heritage Dictionary gives the same meaning for the first four definitions, but my dictionary properly added the political definition of the word "liberal." Maybe his dictionary is not adequate for research. The fifth definition in the "Heritage" is... (6) favoring civil liberties, democratic reforms, and the use of public resources to promote social progress.)

At the USM library is William Safire's Political Dictionary. It defines "liberal" as "currently one who believes in more government action to meet individual needs; originally one who resisted government encroachment on individual liberties." The ongoing struggle (balance of power) between liberals and conservatives is important to the proper managing of our nation's resources. Neither view is absolutely right or wrong. The debate must know their history. This debate is as old as the written word and as fluid in its use as water. It changes its meaning from one group to another as much as it does from one age to another. Internationally it has tended to mean what is today called "progressive." This basically means, "rights of the people against oppressive governments or laws."

In Webster's Third New International Dictionary the word "liberal" has several senses and tenures with definitions that cover a 1 1/4 inch column for 21 1/2 inches. At 114 words per inch that averages about 2,500 words. This covers almost every aspect of the historical and contemporary use of the word "liberal."

At the USM library there are 376 references to the study of "Liberal and Liberalism." Please Mr. Fulcher, if you are going to join this debate, do better research. It could mislead other newcomers to this age-old debate.

Most Republicans favor individual responsibility. Most Republicans believe in taking care of those who can not take care of themselves. If a dictionary can answer a question, let it answer the question of "who can't take care of themselves."

We need individual and national discipline and responsibility.

to discontinue that assistance.

Our country needs healthy debate, and a two-party system is part of that debate process. It is not the process or the only way to participate in a healthy debate. This debate has always added to my health, and Mr. Fulcher's health should improve as he learns more about it. Your entrance into this debate was a fizzle, but we welcome newcomers to the debate freely. Do some more research and come back swinging, but please aim above my knees next time.

Anti-abortion protesters unfairly portrayed by media

To the Editor:

We recently participated in the anti-abortion protests in Baton Rouge. We would like to share some observations from that experience.

First, anti-abortion demonstrators (of whom the greater percentage were women) outnumbered pro-abortion demonstrators ten to one. Official Baton Rouge police estimates are 1,500 to 150. This supported our theory that mainline America is still pro-life in spite of press refusal to represent the numbers. In pictures and videos, you never see or hear of the magnitude of pro-life forces. Pictures are always focused upon the few for abortion. At one point in the week, a procession of pro-life demonstrators seven columns wide and six blocks long paraded around the Delta Women's Clinic. This was carefully avoided in all news coverage.

Another remarkable fact was the demeanor of the two groups. Pro-abortion people (both men and women) were generally angry, vicious, vulgar, profane, and violent. Ruled by their passions, they are angry, infatuated, and promiscuous. They reproduce irresponsibly, and expect all of society to go along with them to destroy what they have created.

The larger group, however, were peaceful and caring of both sides. They brought water and ice to their own and to the abortion advocates - even in the face of ingratitude. We saw one incident where a pro-abortion demonstrator took the water from an anti-abortion demonstrator. Then she threw it on the kind person who gave it to her.

Generally, pro-life demonstrators were not violent, even though the press made them appear to be so. We saw two incidents in which pro-abortionists actually came around the fence and committed acts of aggression, then yelled to the police that they had been attacked. As a result, two pro-life demonstrators who had no intention of violent acts were arrested. We suspect that many of the arrests happened in this way.

We were struck by the distortion of terms. To use the term "pro-choice" to justify abortion is the ultimate deception. How is it possible to be pro-choice when you steal away not only the choices of an entire generation; but also steal away life altogether for that generation?

Women who are in distress with an unplanned pregnancy are not in a position to choose anything. They are usurped and deceived into doing something which they will regret for the rest of their lives by an institution bent on making money from their distress.

After our visit to the Delta Women's Clinic, we are more convinced than ever that abortion clinics are not medical facilities, but slaughter houses; and that America has been deceived into making murder a national institution. The blood of millions are on the hands of all of us.

Finally, we were struck by the fact that 1,500 people were not enough. There should have been 15,000 standing quietly against those 150 banshees; drawing the line below which we will not permit America to sink. That line must be drawn at the killing of innocent children; and it must be drawn now.

When a nation declares an entire segment of the population sub-human from that declaration process. Today it kills pre-born; tomorrow it could be the sick, the elderly, and the handicapped—whenever happens to get into its way.

The ills of society are rampant. Both men and women are responsible. Only men and women are able to turn the situation around in our daily lives. We must each strive to fulfill our roles as responsible members of the human race - loving, respecting, and caring for one another. This includes being responsible in procreating; and it includes an absolute commitment to the value of human life both in and out of the womb, no matter what the form or circumstances.

Anyone who has lived in South Mississippi for any length of time realizes the importance of having the "Storm Trackers" on call 24 hours a day from June to November. Without these hurricane reconnaissance flights, many of our Civil Defense directors and weather experts would lack the intricate data needed to make informed decisions as to when we should begin boarding windows, replacing flashlight batteries and immediately packing the car to head for higher ground.

Because of these reasons and many more, I believe the "Storm Trackers" are vital to the protection of both life and property of the entire population living in South Mississippi and the Gulf Coast areas of the United States. This squadron has saved lives in the past and I want to do everything I can in Congress to make sure they save many more lives in the future.

Girl Scouts enjoy summer camp

By T. H. "DOC" TOUPS
Buccaneer was the site of "By The Sea You and Me," the Bay-Waveland Girl Scout camp held last Monday through Friday.

Some 66 Girl Scouts, 20 adult volunteers, 10 Cadet Girl Scouts and a score of "tag-alongs" (little brothers and sisters) made up the compliment.

The camp was open to all girls in kindergarten through seventh grade, including non-Girl Scouts.

The girls enjoyed activities which ranged from bobbing in the Wave Pool to having Officer Brent Ladner of the Waveland Police Department take their fingerprints for their own personal identification sheet.

Each day started with a flag raising ceremony, and the girls then launched into busy schedule. Artist Kat Fitzpatrick gave a pottery class, Alice Holmes talked about birds and Sean Tusa covered water safety.

Chris Lagarde demonstrated fish printing and had all of the girls press paint coated fish against T-shirts. These were only a few of the activities which occupied the five-day camp.

Hancock Medical Center donated first aid kits for the first aid-classes, Popeye's Fried Chicken donated lunch on Wednesday and several other local businesses donated discounted food to help feed the young ladies.

Jude Ferry, camp director, described the camp as "a great success," and explained it would have been impossible to organize without the help of volunteers.

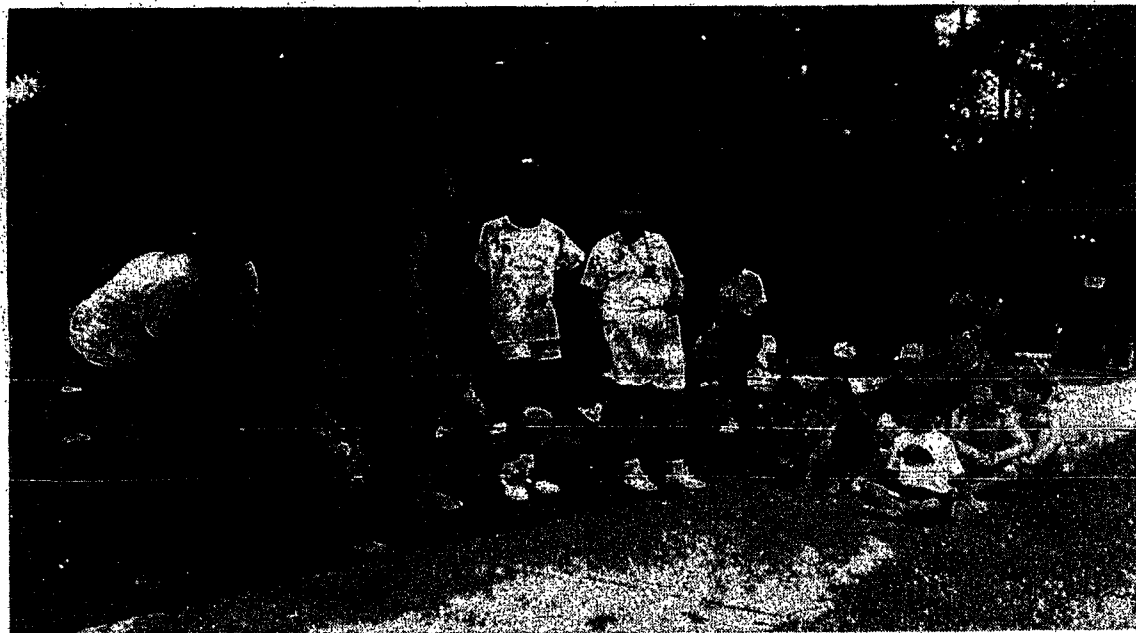

Adult volunteers included Judy Schuengel, Liz Ferrell, Janet Roche, Gayle Hood, Lynn Lewallen, Bethany Burrows, Mary Bartholomew, Karen Kohl, Kelli Hamilton, Tamara Patterson, Collette Schindler, Patti Lady, Donna Southern, Kim Romain, Ethel Schott, Terry King, Dixie Bradfield, Crystal Burrows and Alice Holmes.

Cadet Girls Scouts who volunteered their time included Claudette Garcia, Lauren Tusa, Lulie Phillips, Dawn Steber, Unita Twigg, Rebecca Ferrell, Susie Robinson, Jamie Bordages, Sara Mason and Chrissy Richards.

Alternatives for college savings plans

Fighter

Randall Jordan, caught this 29½-pound red fish while wade fishing at Monroe's fishing pier recently. Jordan used live shrimp as bait with an Ambassador 5000 on 10-pound test line. He fought the fish more than 40 minutes before bringing it to shore.

are asking serious questions about preparing for the impending cost of their children's college education. We should be serious about college costs for they are escalating well ahead of the average inflation rate and as a result, some of the standard recommendations are changing.

For the family with a child under 10, the choices are much more varied than for those with older children. There is simply more time to wait out fluctuations in the economy and realize some significant growth in the college fund. However, a factor as important to remember as where to put the money is being sure to designate and set aside a regular amount at regular intervals. Starting early gives the college fund the advantage of time and compounding of earnings.

Designating the account protects the fund from being sidetracked to shorter term goals and regular contributions allows for the opportunity for "dollar cost averaging" with your investment money.

Probably the most often recommended strategy for the family with young children and as much as 15 years to build their college fund, is investing in stock mutual funds. History shows that stocks as a long-term investment outperform other fixed income alternatives.

Many large mutual fund groups now waive or lower their minimum investment if the parent agrees to contribute a fixed amount every month or opens a Uniform Gifts or Transfers to Minors Act account.

When the first year of college becomes 3 or 4 years away, the risk of decline in the mutual fund value becomes a risk most parents can't afford. Some funds now offer special college options that transfer part of the investment from stocks to a less-risky money market fund once the college-bound youngster becomes a teenager.

Series EE United States Savings Bonds are another popular place to put college money. These bonds are bought at a discount from what you will receive when they mature. If held for 5 years or more, they earn an adjustable rate which changes in May and November of each year but can fall no lower under present law than 6 percent.

You may be able to avoid paying income taxes on the earnings from these savings instruments if the proceeds from the sale of the bond are used for qualified higher education expenses (usually tuition and other required expenses).

This tax break is available dependent upon the family's adjusted gross income. It is phased out for families filing a joint return and adjusted gross income between $66,200 and $96,200 in 1992. The adjusted gross income amounts are indexed for inflation and increase yearly.

College Sure CDs were created by the College Savings Bank of Princeton, N.J. They have a rate tied to the College Board's Independent College 500 Index. The index measures the yearly rise in the cost of attending college. The CDs don't pay the actual index.

For investments of $10,000 or more, they pay one percent less. If the investment is less than $10,000, the rate is 1.5 percent below the index. The CDs have a 5 percent floor, are insured by the FDIC, and offer no income tax breaks.

Reflections

On Life

By Father Jerome
LeDoux, SVD

Doing your best depends on your will and drive, but it is never a one-person operation. Taking it as a given that God is indispensable, at least one other person and probably many will be deeply involved in your quest for the best.

The galvanizing commands of Jesus, "Love your neighbor as yourself" (Mt. 22: 39), and "Do to others whatever you would have them do to you" (Mt. 7: 12), bind you to other people in such a way that you cannot hurt or life, in your acquaintance or among the people with whom you brush shoulders at any time.

First of all, your spouse should not be the competition at doing your best, so that you are driven to perform things better than she/he. Rather, you should complement each other in whatever you are doing to trying to become.

As often as you try to improve yourself in such a way that your spouse will look good, sound good and

How to do your best

Make your friends sound good and look good, and you will surely move closer toward being your best. Such a rare commodity as a genuine friend must push you toward your best.

It is easy to understand that your worst can occur in a vacuum. However, your best can come about only in the midst of the thoughts, words and actions of all the people in your life. It comes about only when you strive to bring out the best in yourself and in others at the same time.

Make your co-workers look good. If your relationship is an adversary, dog-eat-dog one, you will never overtake the ever elusive goal of doing your best at work.

You will definitely do your best if you make great and constant efforts to make other drivers look good, to make other players look good at play, and to make every individual in all social and religious groups look and sound good.

"You can never be your best so long as you try to outshine anyone else in your life..."

enhance yourself without hurting or enhancing them.

Jesus ties us together even more closely with the most powerful of metaphors: "I am the vine; you are the branches... without me you can do nothing" (Jn. 15: 5).

Paul followed the lead of Jesus when he wrote the Romans about their need for each other: "We, though many, are one body in Christ and individually part of one another. Since we have gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us exercise them" (Rom. 12: 5-6).

If you have fond visions of ambition, self-promotion, fame and a position before and above others, you may excel in many things, but you will never do your best. Worst of all, you will not do your best in the things which count most.

You can never be your best so long as you try to outshine anyone else in your feel good, so often will you make giant strides toward becoming and doing the best you can in your family activities.

The same goes for the rest of your family members. If at any time you try to show up one of them, you will go in reverse and do your worst in whatever you are about.

You will surely do your best if, instead of trying to show them up, you follow the golden rule by affirming their ego, exalting them and showing your appreciation for them.

Your worst will result from ill-wishing, but your best will follow immediately from wishing your family the best and doing all in your power to share the best with them.

Women's Aglow to meet Tuesday

The Women's Aglow Fellowship of Hancock County will meet Tuesday, July 28, 7 p.m., at the Waveland Resort Inn on Hwy. 90.

A Dutch treat dinner, shrimp fettucini, will precede the meeting at 6 p.m. The dinner is $10 per person, and reservations must be made by noon Monday.

Guest speaker is Donna Babin. She is involved in the family ministry at Victory Assembly in Metairie, La., and currently pastors the church's women's ministry. Her role as women's ministry pastor includes overseeing 80 Bible studies throughout New Orleans.

Aglow spokeswoman Edith Palmer said Babin flows in the gifts of the Holy Spirit, and her areas of ministry include encouragement and healing.

Also attending the meeting as ministry guests will be members of the Victory Assembly praise and worship team.

Women's Aglow is an international organization of renewed Christian women who are committed to Jesus. During the monthly meetings of the interdenominational fellowship, the members worship God and share His word. Husbands and friends of the women who attend also are invited.

The fellowship is asking those who attend to bring canned foods and dry goods—flour, sugar, etc.—for the county Food Pantry.

For more information or dinner reservations, call Jule Howell at 467-0030 or Edith Palmer at 467-7507.

SECOND PUBLIC HEARING

Bay St. Louis, Mississippi is considering applying to the Mississippi Department of Economic and Community Development (MDECD) for a 1992 Home Investment Partnership Program (HOME) Grant. The grant will be used for improvements to low and moderate income homeowner occupied housing units. Citizen participation requirements mandate an initial public hearing in which local input, both verbal and written, is gathered.

Also a second public hearing is required in which the citizenry is informed of the following:

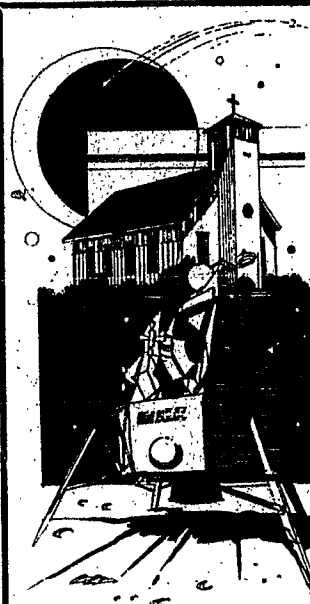

1. Type of proposed HOME activities;
2. Location of proposed HOME project area(s); and
3. Reasons for selecting activities and project area(s).

The purpose of this notice is to inform the citizenry of the scheduling of the second public hearing. The hearing will be held at City Hall, on Wednesday, August 12, 1992 at 5:30 p.m. The above location has been selected because it is accessible to the handicapped.

GOD ENABLED MAN TO REACH THE LIMIT OF OUTER SPACE

It has been 23 years since the crew members of Apollo 11 set foot on the moon, in that incredible triumph of man over the force of gravity that has always tied him to Planet Earth. Since then, others have ventured into outer space, and what may be even more mind-boggling, we have sent unmanned spacecraft on photographic missions that resulted in pictures of planets and satellites with minute details that gave you the feeling of actually being there. Some of us will in fact be there in the next century, for there are plans to send a delegation to our neighboring Mars. Go to your House of Worship and thank God for giving man the intelligence and technology to accomplish these marvelous feats, as well as the bright promise of even more achievements that the future will bring.
